Endijs Perkons and Adam Fasani Join Plumas Bank in Redding

Redding, Calif. (April 27, 2026)- Plumas Bank recently announced two key additions to its credit administration and commercial lending teams. Endijs Perkons joined the company as senior vice president and credit administrator, and Adam Fasani has joined as vice president, commercial loan officer. Both bring extensive commercial banking experience and further strengthen the bank's leadership presence in the North State. They are housed at Plumas Bank's Hartnell offices in Redding.

Perkons joins Plumas Bank with more than a decade of industry experience in commercial credit and risk management. As a credit administrator, Perkons oversees credit processes, monitors loan portfolio risk and ensures regulatory compliance. In his new role, he'll also work closely with executive leadership and lending teams to support the bank's growth.

Adam Fasani brings decades of commercial lending experience to his new role with prior experience at community, regional and national banks. Most recently, he served as commercial credit administrator for Bank of Marin. At Plumas Bank, Fasani will focus on building and managing commercial lending relationships and supporting business clients throughout the region.

"We are very excited to welcome Endijs and Adam to the team," said Matt Moseley, Executive Vice President, Regional President at Plumas Bank. "Endijs brings strong credit leadership and deep experience in managing complex portfolios, while Adam's long-standing background in commercial lending and relationship management will further enhance our ability to serve local businesses."

With the addition of Perkons and Fasani, Plumas Bank continues to invest in experienced leadership as it celebrates its 45th anniversary and strengthens its mission of making banking both personal and powerful for the individuals, businesses and the communities it serves.
